Dear Gaylord:

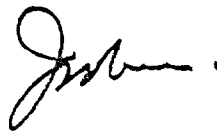

Thank you for your note about Jean Schact. I am sorry that a Stanford student had to find her way to my office via Washington, but she's of course by all means welcome and I will infact try to look her up to make sure she understands that.

The enclosed announcement may or may not have made its way to Washington, but it should have deterred neither her nor yourself; it may in fact increase the odds of working out the dinner invitation you so kindly included.

After September when we are ensconced on the East Coast ourselves, I hope that you will also feel free and able to reciprocate.

I look forward to being able to look you up -- if not next week -- in the not unreasonable future.

Yours,

Enclosure
